

Course Information

NCFE Level 2 Certificate in Equality and Diversity

Who is the course suitable for?

This course is designed for those who wish to gain understanding of the diverse society we live in. This programme covers different backgrounds, views, values and beliefs and is designed for those who wish to develop their knowledge of the issues and anti-discrimination laws that relate to equality and diversity. You do not need to have any formal qualifications in order to follow this course but you will need to demonstrate commitment and motivation to work through the specially prepared distance-learning materials.

Course aims

The course aims to provide a structured training programme which will enable you to improve your knowledge and understanding of equality and diversity.

What is included in the course?

The course will cover the following areas:

- The meaning and importance of equality and diversity
- The promotion of equality and diversity
- Social and individual prejudice and discrimination
- Individual and organisational rights and responsibilities

Course delivery and assessment

You will be provided with a series of workbooks for the programme which you can work through at your own pace and at times convenient to you. The workbooks contain the knowledge you require to progress towards achieving the qualification with activities to allow you to practise skills and test your learning.

You will work through the learning materials and complete assessment tasks at the end of each unit. Learning activities and assessments are based on a combination of knowledge and skills learned on the programme and work-based activities and experience.

This course can also be delivered as workshops in your workplace or at an identified venue.

On successful completion of the 3 units you will be awarded a certificate.

Progression opportunities

On completion you could progress on to a range of programmes including NVQs. The specific progression route will depend on your vocational choice. In addition more general routes are also appropriate, for example Health and Safety or Customer Relations.
